SAFETY INTERVENTION STANDARDS

Introduction

A thorough understanding of child safety decisions and actions is essential and relevant for initial assessment/investigation and ongoing Child Protective Services (CPS). Safety assessment, present danger assessment, protective planning, safety analysis, safety planning, and the management of child safety occur in every aspect of CPS involvement with a family. CPS has the following fundamental safety intervention responsibilities:

CPS Access:

- Gathering information related to present and impending danger threats to child safety; and
- Making screening, urgency, and response time decisions based on threats to child safety.

CPS Initial Assessment/Investigation:

- Collecting thorough safety related information with respect to individual and family member functioning;
- Analyzing the information in order to determine whether a child is safe or unsafe;
- Developing safety plans that are effective in assuring child safety and are the least intrusive to the family; and
- Overseeing and managing child safety.

CPS Ongoing:

- Evaluating the existing safety plan developed during initial assessment/investigation;
- Managing and assuring child safety through continuous assessment, oversight, and adjustment of safety plans that are effective in assuring child safety and are the least intrusive to the family;
- Engaging families in a case planning process that will identify services to address threats to child safety by enhancing parent/caregiver protective capacities; and
- Measuring progress related to enhancing parent/caregiver protective capacities and eliminating safety related issues.

A collaborative relationship between CPS and parents/caregivers that is based on practice principles of respect, honesty, equity, and self-determination is critical for effective safety assessment, planning, and management. The parents or caregivers are viewed as the primary authorities in the family and are most accountable for safety and security within the family unit. CPS seeks to have a partnership with parents/caregivers, in so far as reasonable and possible, for the purpose of enhancing parent/caregiver protective capacity to enable parents and caregivers to provide a safe home for their children independent of CPS.* In addition to the relationship between CPS and parents/caregivers, it is important to seek out involvement from extended family, community supports, friends, etc. who can help parents/caregivers and CPS manage child safety.

* NOTE: Refer to the Glossary for the definition of safe home.

I. Safety Intervention

I.A. Definition and Principles of Practice

Safety intervention refers to all the decisions and actions required throughout CPS involvement with the family to assure that an unsafe child is protected. Safety intervention respects the constitutional rights of each family member and utilizes the least intrusive intervention to keep a child safe.

Safety intervention consists of:

- Collecting information about the family to assess child safety;
- Identifying and understanding present and impending danger threats;
- Evaluating parent/caregiver protective capacities;
- Determining if a child is safe or unsafe, and
- Taking necessary action to protect an unsafe child.

If a child is unsafe, the following apply:

- Engaging parents/caregivers in the development and implementation of a safety plan;
- Continuously managing safety plans that assure child safety;
- Creating and implementing case plans that enhance parent/caregiver protective capacities and decrease impending danger threats;
- Supporting and empowering a parent/caregiver in taking responsibility for the child's protection, and
- Establishing a safe, permanent home for an unsafe child.

When a child is unsafe, CPS must collaborate with the family to develop and implement a protective or safety plan.

Parents/caregivers are an important resource in developing protective or safety plans. This does not mean that parents/caregivers are responsible for or have to agree with the need for a safety plan to control present or impending threats to safety but they do have to be willing to be involved and cooperate with the use of a protective or safety plan. Once it has been determined that a child is unsafe, CPS should take action as necessary to control threats to child safety. While parents/caregivers must be kept fully informed of safety decisions and involved in safety planning, CPS has the responsibility to control threats to child safety. The level of CPS involvement and/or intrusion with a family with respect to controlling and managing child safety depends on how threats to safety are operating in a family and the willingness and capacity of parents/caregivers to follow through with the requirements of a safety plan.

I.B. Court Intervention

If the family is unable or unwilling to control present danger and/or impending danger threats to safety through the use of an in-home safety plan, CPS must consult with the district attorney/corporation counsel to assure that necessary services (in-home or out-of-home) are ordered by the court and implemented or take other reasonable action (e.g. Temporary Physical Custody) to immediately assure child safety.

I.C. ICWA Requirements

In all aspects of safety intervention, including protective and safety plans, an Indian child's family and tribe must be informed and the Indian Child Welfare Act (ICWA) must be followed. [25 USC 1901 to 1923]

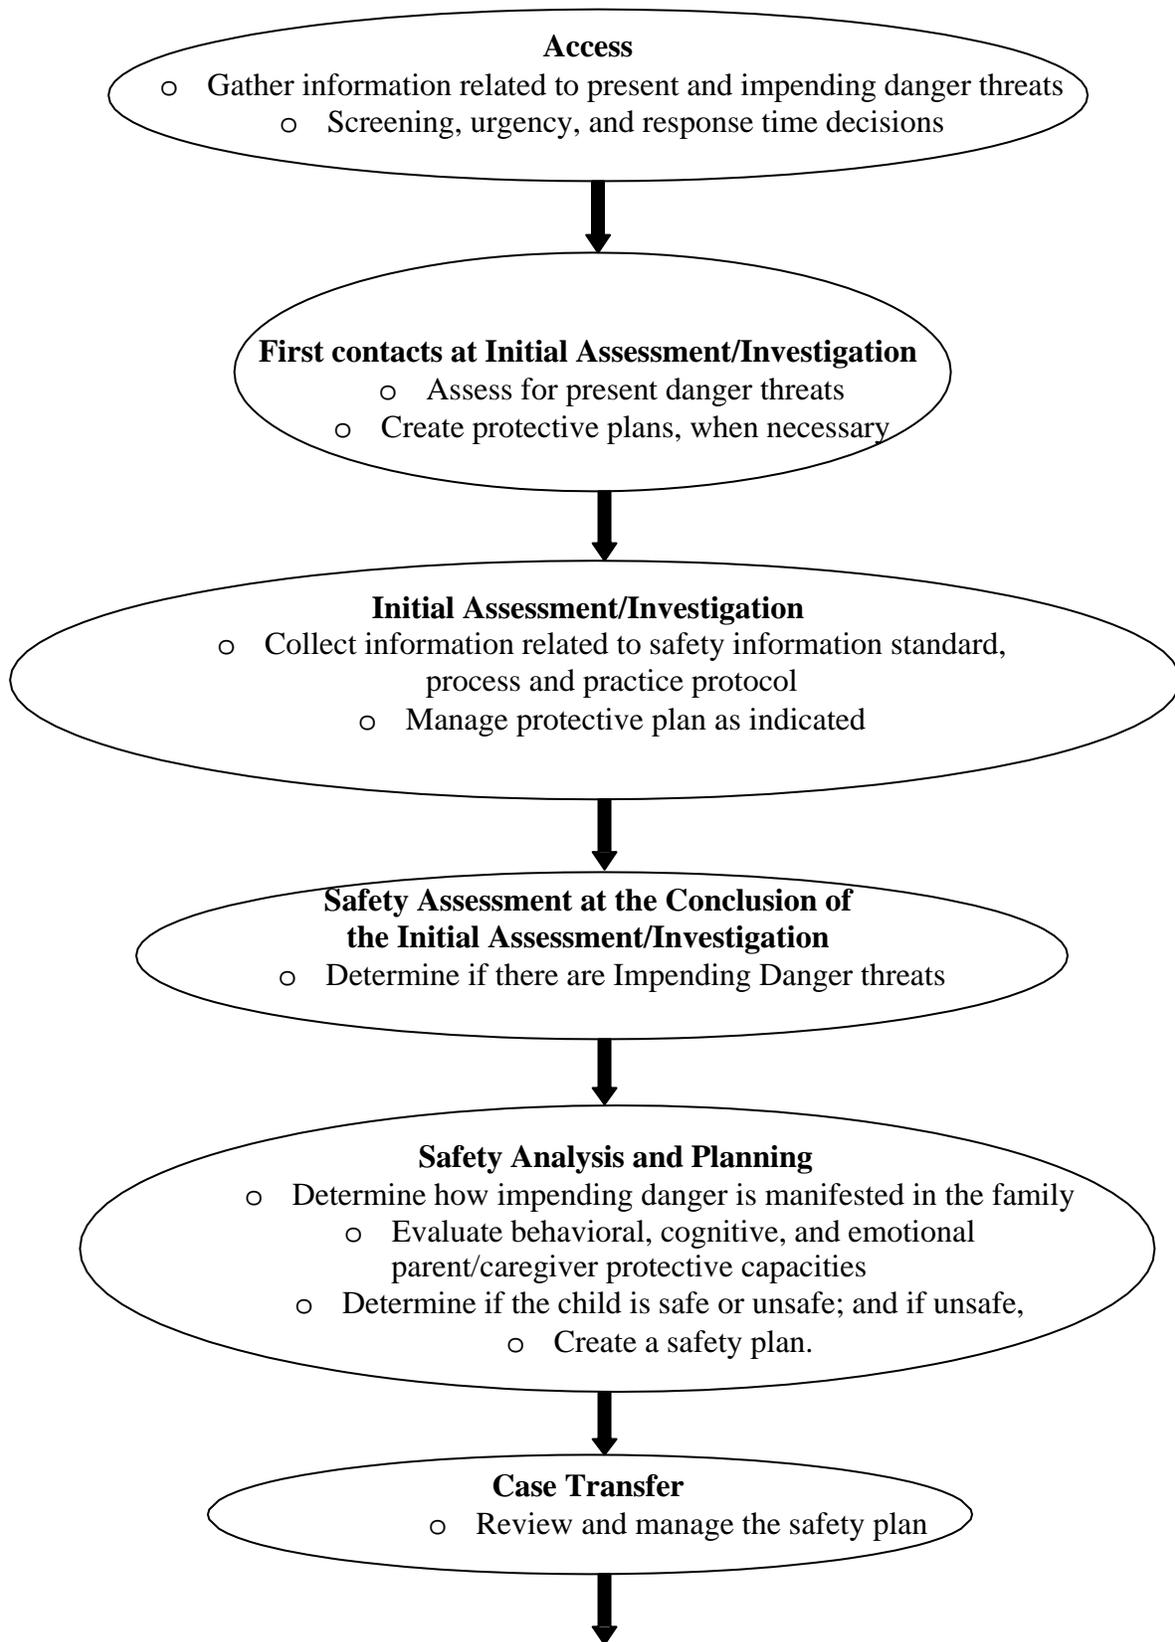

If a petition is filed on behalf of an Indian child, as defined in the Indian Child Welfare Act, CPS must notify the tribe, tribes or Bureau of Indian Affairs as required in ICWA and in accordance with the policy "Identification of Indian Children and Proper Notification in Cases Subject to the Indian Child Welfare Act." [DCFS Memo Series 2006-01]

When an Indian child is formally placed in out-of-home care by court order all ICWA requirements regarding placement preferences must be followed. All actions taken to comply with ICWA must be documented in the case record.

Additionally, the ICWA requires notification to the appropriate tribe when an Indian child is removed from his or her parent or Indian Custodian for temporary placement in a foster home or institution or the home of a guardian or conservator where the parent or Indian Custodian cannot have the child returned upon demand.

CPS Case Flow and Safety Intervention

There are key decision-making points in the CPS case process as it relates to child safety. However, these critical points in safety intervention are not mutually exclusive and can occur throughout CPS involvement. When there is a new report of maltreatment or safety threats emerge in Ongoing Services, CPS assesses threats to safety and, when appropriate, develops and implements a safety plan to control identified threats. The following chart shows the relationship between safety assessment, safety analysis, and safety planning throughout the CPS case process.

Family Assessment and Case Plan

- Identify parent/caregiver protective capacities associated with impending danger threats
- Identify and implement interventions to address impending danger and parent/caregiver protective capacities
- Identify ways to measure the effectiveness of interventions

Case Progress Evaluation

- Measure and evaluate progress related to decreasing impending danger threats and enhancing parent/caregiver protective capacities
 - Revise plans, as necessary

Case Closure

- Confirm the existence of a safe home

II. Assessing and Controlling Present Danger Threats at the Initial Contact with Families

At the onset of the Initial Assessment/Investigation or at any point of CPS involvement with families when there is a reported crisis or a new referral, CPS will begin a safety assessment by focusing on whether there are present danger threats to a vulnerable child's safety. (See Safety Appendix 1: Present Danger Threats to Child Safety and Safety Appendix 2: The Vulnerable Child)

Present danger threats are the primary basis for assessing child safety at the onset of the Initial Assessment/Investigation. While it is possible to begin gathering information at first contact with families that may reveal indications of impending danger (e.g. prior involvement at either initial assessment/investigation or ongoing services provision), typically impending danger can only be identified through the collection of information about the family/ family member functioning. (See Safety Appendix 6: The Safety Threshold and Impending Danger Threats to Child Safety)

II.A. Assessing for Present Danger Threats

CPS must assess and evaluate the family and home situation to determine whether a child is in present danger at the following points in the case process:

- information gathering and screening at Access
- determining the response time at Access
- making the initial face-to-face contact with the child(ren)
- making the initial face-to-face contact with the parents/caregivers
- Entering a Present Danger Assessment in eWiSACWIS within two business days if Present Danger Threats are identified or by the end of the initial assessment if no Present Danger Threats are identified.

A protective plan is an immediate, short term strategy in response to the identification of present danger threats. The protective plan provides a child with adult supervision and care to control present danger threats and to allow for the collection of information that can be used to determine impending danger and parent/caregiver protective capacities. A protective plan may be a voluntary arrangement made between a family and an agency(in the home or outside the home), or it may be a plan put in place via a temporary physical custody (TPC) request to the court.

II.B. Creating a Protective Plan

With the identification of present danger threats, CPS must establish a protective plan. (See: Safety Appendix 3: Establishing and Implementing the Protective Plan) A protective plan must include immediate action(s) to control present danger threats while more information about the family is being gathered through the course of the initial assessment/investigation.

When creating a protective plan CPS must:

- inform the parents/ caregivers why the child is determined to be unsafe (present danger threats),
- identify with the parents/caregivers what protective plan options are available and acceptable,
- inform the parents/caregivers of the role of CPS to assure the child is protected,
- attempt to use resources within the family network to develop the protective plan,
- confirm that there is agreement by all participants, which includes having the participants sign the protective plan document,
- put the plan into place before CPS leaves the family/situation,
- consult with a supervisor or her/his designee regarding the protective plan and have them sign the plan by the next business day, and
- within two business days of the protective plan being implemented, the protective plan document must be scanned into eWISACWIS,
- within two business days of a Protective Plan being implemented, a Present Danger Assessment & Plan must be entered into eWiSACWIS.

In cases where resources within the family network are not available, accessible, or appropriate, CPS must use formal resources to develop the protective plan. It is typical in these situations to have a combination of informal and formal resources that are put in place for the protective plan.

Child welfare staff must involve tribes in all aspects of safety intervention (CPS Safety Intervention Standards, dated 2015, I.C. ICWA Requirements, page 3), including protective planning, and must initiate active efforts immediately when protective planning with Indian children. These efforts include ongoing, vigorous and concerted casework interventions which are intended to promote communication, collaboration, and coordination with tribe(s) to develop protective plans with Indian children.

A protective plan involving emergency removal must be used when present danger threats exist and family network or formal resources are not available or accessible or parents/caregivers are unable/unwilling to permit CPS to implement a protective plan.

II.C. Documentation

A protective plan must contain specific information regarding how present danger threats will be controlled.

Details of a protective plan must include a description of:

- the identified present danger threats that result in an unsafe child,
- how the protective plan is intended to control identified threats to each child's safety including:
 1. the name(s) of the responsible/protective adult(s) ("Provider Name" on the Protective Plan form) related to each protective action, and an explanation of the person(s) relationship to the family,
 2. the actions/services ("Provider Role" on the Protective Plan form) to assure child safety including frequency and duration,
 3. the child's location, alleged maltreater, and parent/caregiver access, and
 4. how CPS will oversee/manage the protective plan, including communication with the family and providers.

A copy of the signed protective plan must be provided to the family and, if appropriate the out- of-home care provider. When children are placed through a temporary physical custody request (TPC), this document and supporting case information serve as the protective plan.

Within two business days of the protective plan being implemented, the protective plan document must be scanned into eWiSACWIS.

III. Safety in Out-of-Home Placement

III.A. Evaluating Safety in Unlicensed and Licensed Homes When Placing a Child in Out-of-Home Care as Part of a Protective Plan

Whenever CPS implements an out-of-home protective plan either in a licensed or unlicensed home to control present danger threats, CPS must assess and evaluate the safety of the placement setting as outlined below:

- Prior to implementing the out-of-home protective plan, CPS must assess and evaluate the safety of the placement through direct contact with the substitute caregiver. This also includes a discussion of the expectations and their role in the protective plan as well as any issues related to the care of the child.
- Prior to a child's placement with an unlicensed caregiver (e.g. relatives, friends, neighbors), CPS must request a check of law enforcement records on all individuals residing in the identified placement home. If a home visit is not conducted at the time of the time of placement in an unlicensed home, CPS must document in the family case record how child safety was ensured in the placement setting.

- When a home visit is not conducted at the time of placement in an unlicensed home, CPS must, within 24 hours of placement, conduct a home visit to assess safety and the home conditions, and to assist the caregiver in setting up whatever provisions are needed for the care of the child.
- When a child is placed in an unlicensed home, a CPS records check must be completed within 24 hours of placement.
- Within five (5) working days of placement in a licensed home, CPS must conduct a home visit to reassess the home conditions and assist the caregiver in setting up whatever provisions are needed for the care of the child.

(See: Safety Appendix 4: Present Danger Threats in Placement Homes)

III.B. Documentation

Information related to III. Safety in Out-of-Home Placement must be documented in the family case record.

IV. Safety Management during Initial Assessment/Investigation

IV.A. Overseeing the Protective Plan and Monitoring Safety

The protective plan remains in effect during the period of initial assessment/investigation or until information is gathered to either eliminate the need for a protective plan or create a safety plan based on impending danger threats.

For the duration of the protective plan, CPS must review the adequacy of the protective plan weekly and modify, when necessary. After reviewing the protective plan, the caseworker must document the status of the present danger threat(s) identified; the sufficiency, feasibility, and sustainability of the protective plan and any needed revisions in a case note.

If there are modifications made to the protective plan, a newly developed protective plan document must be signed by all parties, and scanned in to eWISACWIS within two business days of implementation of the plan. If separation is used as part of the Protective Plan then the Present Danger Assessment and Protective Plan needs to be updated in eWiSACWIS to reflect any changes that have been made that impacts the frequency or duration that separation is used.

When present danger threats are no longer active in the family and a protective plan is no longer needed, the assessment surrounding this determination and the end of the protective plan must be documented in a case note. The Present Danger Assessment & Plan must also be ended in eWiSACWIS.

V. Safety Information and Safety Assessment, Analysis, and Plan

V.A. Gathering Safety Related Information during the Initial Assessment/Investigation

In accordance with the CPS Investigation Standards, when the alleged maltreatment is by a primary caregiver, CPS must conduct interviews and gather the following information to assess impending danger and develop safety plans:

1. The extent of maltreatment
2. The circumstances surrounding the maltreatment
3. Child functioning
4. Adult functioning
5. Parenting and disciplinary practices

(See: Safety Appendix 5: Information Needed to Support Safety Decisions and Safety Appendix 6: The Safety Threshold and Impending Danger Threats to Child Safety)

The CPS Investigation Standards also require an assessment of family functioning. This information is related to risk concerns and not threats to child safety.

V.B. Safety Assessment and Safety Analysis

CPS must complete a safety assessment at the conclusion of the initial assessment/investigation of alleged maltreatment by a primary caregiver. The basis for assessing child safety at the conclusion of the initial assessment/investigation is the identification of impending danger threats. If impending danger threats are identified, then a child may be unsafe. (See Safety Appendix 6: The Safety Threshold and Impending Danger Threats to Child Safety)

If a safety assessment indicates that a child may be unsafe, a safety analysis must be completed to determine if a child is safe or unsafe by:

- identifying how impending danger threats are occurring in this family, and
- assessing the parent's/caregiver's ability and capacity to provide protection.

The same day a child has been judged to be unsafe (i.e. presence of impending danger and insufficient parent/caregiver protective capacities) CPS must develop and put into place a safety plan.

Initial assessment/investigation information related to adult functioning and parenting should reveal if there are parent/caregiver protective capacities sufficient to manage impending danger. Additional information may be necessary to further identify parent/caregiver protective capacities that will assure child safety.

In most cases, the same day a child is judged to be unsafe a plan to control for child safety must be developed and put in place. There may be extenuating circumstances that are documented in the family case record that allow for the safety plan to be created and implemented within a few days. For instance, a child may not be exposed or be immediately accessible to the parent/caregiver that poses an impending danger or a child is presently safe due to the existence of a protective plan that has been in effect since the beginning of the initial assessment/investigation. That protective plan remains in place until such time as the safety plan is fully established.

If the safety assessment indicates that a child may be unsafe, a safety analysis is completed to further examine specifically how impending danger identified in the safety assessment is occurring in a family and evaluate the capacity of the parent/caregiver or family members to assure child safety. A child is unsafe when the safety analysis concludes that parent/ caregiver protective capacities are insufficient to manage or mitigate impending danger and assure protection. (See Safety Appendix 7: Parent/Caregiver Protective Capacities)

If a child is unsafe, a determination needs to be made regarding the level of intervention required to control and manage impending danger threats, including the need for an in-home safety plan, an out-of-home safety plan, or a safety plan that combines in-home and out-of-home options.

V.C.1. Safety Plan

A safety plan is only required when a child is concluded to be unsafe. A safety plan is a written arrangement between parents/caregivers and CPS that establishes how impending danger threats will be managed. The safety plan is implemented and active as long as impending danger threats exist and parent/caregiver protective capacities are insufficient to assure a child is protected. The safety plan must describe in detail:

- the specific impending danger threats,
- the safety services that will be used to manage impending danger threats,
- the names of formal and informal providers that will provide safety services,
- the roles and responsibilities of the safety services providers including a description of the availability, accessibility and suitability of those involved,
- the action/services including frequency and duration, and
- how CPS will manage/oversee the safety plan, including communication with the family and providers.

(See Safety Appendix 8: Safety Plan Information and Safety Appendix 9: Safety Services Information)

CPS should consider the least intrusive means possible to control impending danger and involve parent/caregivers in a discussion about the results of the safety analysis and the need for a safety plan. CPS should inform parents/caregivers about their rights related to accepting/cooperating with the safety plan as well as any alternatives or consequences.

In order to develop a safety plan that uses the least intrusive means possible, CPS should:

- work to engage parent/caregiver in understanding and accepting the need for a safety plan,
- enlist the parent/caregiver in a process of identifying and fully considering available safety management services/options.

Careful consideration is first given to the use of in-home safety management options followed by combinations of in-home and out-of-home safety management options, before concluding that out-of-home safety management is the only acceptable means to manage impending danger and assure child protection.

V.C.2. Developing a Safety Plan

When developing a safety plan, CPS must first use the in-home safety management criteria in Safety Appendix 10: In-home Safety Management Criteria to determine if an in-home safety plan can be implemented and is sufficient to control impending danger threats to assure child safety. CPS must also confirm that parents/caregivers are willing to cooperate with an in-home safety plan and agree with the expectations, designated tasks, and time commitments set forth in the safety plan.

When an in-home safety plan cannot assure that impending danger threats will be managed, CPS must develop an out-of-home safety plan using the criteria in Safety Appendix 11: Out-of-Home Safety Management Criteria. CPS must inform the substitute caregivers of the expectations and their role in the safety plan as well as discuss any issues related to the care of the child.

An out-of-home safety plan must clearly outline what is needed (e.g. conditions, expectations, safety services) for the child to return home with an in-home safety plan.

Prior to an unsafe child's placement in a relative or foster home, CPS must formally assess the safety of the placement setting.

V.C.3 Documentation/Supervisory Approval

The safety assessment, analysis and plan must be approved by a supervisor or her/his designee and documented in the family case record.

VI. Initiation of CPS Ongoing Services

VI.A. Reviewing the Safety Plan at the Initiation of Ongoing Services

The review of the safety plan by the newly assigned worker must include:

- a transition meeting between the initial assessment/investigation worker and the newly assigned worker to discuss the specific expectations for CPS oversight of the safety plan,
- meeting face-to-face with parents/caregivers and children within seven (7) working days from the initiation of ongoing services to review their understanding of the safety plan and their roles and responsibilities,
- communicating with safety plan participants/providers, either in person or by telephone, to confirm their continued commitment to and involvement in the safety plan as well as their understanding of their roles and responsibilities, and
- modifying the safety plan as necessary and assuring that all parties involved in the safety plan are informed and remain committed.

Note: There are other times in the case process when a case is transferred from one worker to another or from one county to another. In these circumstances, CPS workers must also have a transition meeting to discuss the specific expectations for CPS oversight of the safety plan.

Attention to child safety is critical during the transition to ongoing services. Key factors associated with safety management oversight include:

1. Contact with the Parents/Caregivers and Children.

The need for contact is qualified by what is happening in a case at the time of case transfer. Based on information from the safety assessment and analysis, some case circumstances may support the need for immediate contact. These may include, but are not limited to:

- changes in circumstances that may impact child safety,
- the complexity or volatility of safety threats,
- the type of safety plan (in-home or out-of-home) and the need to respond differently to each,
- child vulnerability including susceptibility and accessibility to the safety threat(s),
- the level of effort/frequency of activities in the safety plan and reliability of those involved in the safety plan, and
- the confidence related to parent/caregiver participation and commitment to child safety.

2. Evaluation of the Safety plan

CPS staff needs to be proficient in safety management to assure that safety threats are controlled and managed at the needed frequency, duration, and service level.

Furthermore, evaluation requires confirming that the safety actions taken by CPS and others match impending danger threats and compensate for the identified diminished parent/caregiver protective capacities.

3. Immediate Adjustment of the Safety plan

Safety planning needs to be understood as dynamic. CPS must act promptly and thoroughly when a safety plan is judged to be insufficient and in need of modification.

VII. Safety Intervention in CPS Ongoing Services Family Assessment and Case Planning Process

The process of assessing parent/caregiver protective capacities meets the requirements set forth in the Adoption and Safe Families Act concerned with integrating safety concerns in case plans and achieving safe homes. Understanding and using the concept of parent/caregiver protective capacities is the basis to address diminished protective capacities and safety threats in case plans.

VII.A. Family Assessment

Conducting the Assessment of Protective Capacities

To assess and identify parent/caregiver protective capacities when a child is unsafe, CPS should:

- review the results of the initial assessment/investigation, safety analysis and plan, and other relevant records,
- verify that the safety plan continues to control safety threats,
- make attempts to engage the family in a collaborative partnership in identifying any parent/caregiver protective capacities that must change to assure child safety,
- evaluate the parent's/caregiver's readiness to change, and
- gather information from the family's informal and formal support system to better understand safety threats, parent/caregiver protective capacities, unmet family needs, and prospective solutions and resources.

(See Safety Appendix 6: The Safety Threshold and Impending Danger Threats to Child Safety and Safety Appendix 7 Parent/Caregiver Protective Capacities)

VII.A. Decisions and Conclusions at Family Assessment

To address child safety, CPS must make decisions and conclusions about the following:

- What parent/caregiver protective capacities are diminished and, therefore, result in impending danger to the child?
- What is the impact of adult functioning on parenting practices?
- What is the impending danger to the child based on how safety threats are manifested in the family?
- Are safety threats being adequately managed and controlled?

Involving Parents/Caregivers in Designing a Case Plan

CPS should discuss with parents/caregivers:

- the circumstances and family conditions involving impending danger,
- the rationale and necessity for safety and case plan services,
- the implications for parent/caregiver participation and commitment to case plans,
- the potential outcomes of successful or unsuccessful case plans, and
- specifically what conditions of the home or parent/caregiver behaviors need to change.

VII.B. Case Plan

VII.B. Case Plan Content

Consistent with the “Ongoing Services Standards and Guidelines for Child Protective Services”, when the family has an out-of-home or in-home safety plan, the first priority for case planning must be reducing the threats to child safety and enhancing the protective capacities of the parents/caregivers so that the family can assure child safety without CPS intervention.

The case plan must include:

1. Identified goals, developed with the family, which are specific, behavioral and measurable with a focus on enhancing parent/caregiver protective capacities in order to establish child safety and a safe home.
2. Identified services and specified roles and responsibilities of providers, family members, and the ongoing service worker to assist the family in achieving the identified goals.

Consideration of the following questions can aid in developing case plans that are successful and focus on changing conditions that make the child(ren) unsafe:

- How can existing enhanced parent/caregiver protective capacities be used to help facilitate change?
- What change strategy (case plan) will most likely enhance protective capacities and decrease impending danger?
- How ready, willing, and able are parents/caregivers to address impending danger and diminished protective capacities, and are there any case management implications?

VII.C. Family Assessment and Case Plan Documentation/Supervisory Approval

Consistent with the “Ongoing Services Standards and Guidelines for Child Protective Services”, the family assessment and case plan, which includes safety intervention information, must have supervisory approval (or her/his designee) and be documented in the family case record within sixty (60) days from the initiation of Ongoing Services.

VIII. Managing Safety during Ongoing Services

Continually evaluating the effectiveness of what has been planned to control safety threats (safety plans) or enhance parent/caregiver protective capacities (case plans) is a critical CPS responsibility in safety and case management. Because family dynamics/situations can change, it is necessary to monitor safety on a continuing basis.

Case management, as applied to safety intervention, refers to

- attempting to engage parents/caregivers in a process for change,
- identifying parents/caregiver protective capacities,
- integrating parent/caregiver protective capacities into case plans,
- arranging and implementing services focused on enhancing parent/caregiver protective capacities,
- communicating routinely with parents/caregivers and service providers,
- identifying and removing barriers and conflict that can jeopardize the successful implementation of the safety plan,
- evaluating parent/caregiver progress, and
- closing the case when a safe home has been achieved.

VIII.A. Monitoring the Safety Plan

In-Home Safety Plan

The CPS Ongoing Services worker must continuously conduct a review and evaluation of the adequacy of an in-home safety plan.

This includes:

- twice a month face-to face contact, at a minimum, with parents/caregivers and child unless a need for more immediate contact is indicated by the information obtained about the family by a safety service provider, and
- once a month contact, at a minimum, with service providers involved in the safety plan.

Out-of-Home Safety Plan

The CPS Ongoing Services worker must continuously conduct a review and evaluation of the adequacy of an out-of-home safety plan. This includes:

- monthly, at a minimum, face-to-face contact with the out-of-home caregiver and child, and
- monthly, at a minimum, face-to-face contact with parents.

Note: CPS must also complete a formal re-assessment of the safety of the placement every six months. This must include confirmation of the continuing suitability of the providers, the absence of safety threats, the presence of indicators that the environment is safe, and the child's adjustment to the placement.

In families where there is an in-home safety plan, information gathered from the parents/caregivers, child, and service providers is used to evaluate and confirm child safety by:

- assuring that the services put in place continue to adequately control identified safety threats,
- assuring that the commitments by the family and providers remain in tact,
- determining whether previously identified safety threats have been eliminated or if the severity has been reduced or increased,
- determining if new safety threats have emerged, and
- modifying the safety (related to impending danger threats) or case plan (related to protective capacities), when appropriate.

In families where there is an out-of-home safety plan, information gathered from the parents/caregivers, child and out-of-home care provider is used to:

- assess if safety threats in the parental home are in effect,
- determine if conditions have changed/can be controlled with the provision of services to allow the child to return home with an in-home safety plan, and
- assess if the child's out-of-home care provider is continuing to meet the child's needs and provide for their protection/safety, and modify the safety or case plan, when appropriate.

VIII.B. Documentation

Information related to the requirements of safety management must be documented in the family case record.

IX. Case Progress Evaluation

The case progress evaluation is a formal opportunity for the family and the Ongoing Services worker to assess and evaluate progress toward enhancing parent/caregiver protective capacities or reducing or eliminating safety threats and to make any needed modifications to the plan to support the family in establishing and maintaining a safe home for their children.

IX.A. Measuring and Evaluating Progress and Change

As part of monitoring an in-home or out-of-home safety plan (refer to Section VIII.A. Monitoring the Safety plan) the Ongoing Services worker must conduct a case progress evaluation every 90 days after the initiation of the case plan in order to evaluate the effectiveness of the case plan and measure progress and change.

The goals in the case plan are used as the basis for evaluating progress and change related to enhancing parent/caregiver protective capacities related to impending danger threats.

When the case progress evaluation indicates that the case plan needs to be modified due to changes in parent/caregiver protective capacities or threats to safety, the Ongoing Services worker, in collaboration with parents/caregivers, must revise the plan or create a new case plan.

IX.B. Documentation/Supervisory Approval

Case Progress Evaluation information must be documented in the family case record and approved by a supervisor or her/his designee.

X. Reunification

Reunification represents a specific event within ongoing CPS safety management. It is possible to reunify after parents/caregivers have made progress related to addressing issues associated with safety threats and parent/caregiver protective capacities. The essential question is, “Can the child be kept safe within the home if he or she is returned home?”

X.A. Reunification Criteria and Process

Prior to a child being reunified, the following safety criteria must be met:

- Child safety can be maintained within the child’s home,
- Circumstances and behavior that resulted in removal can now be managed through an in-home safety plan, and
- A judgment can be made that an in-home safety plan can be sustained while services continue.

When the results of the case progress indicate that diminished parent/caregiver protective capacities are sufficiently enhanced to manage threats to safety, CPS initiates the process to reunify a child with his or her family.

As a part of this process CPS must:

- conduct a safety assessment and analysis before completing the reunification process, and
- when a child is unsafe, create an in-home safety plan to be implemented when the child is reunified. The in-home safety plan must be managed in accordance with these Standards.

XI. Case Closure

XI.A.1. Safety at Case Closure

Safety intervention at case closure relates to confirming that there are no safety threats or that sufficient parent/caregiver protective capacities exist to protect the child from impending danger.

The CPS responsibilities in making a determination that a safe home exists include:

- a formal safety assessment to make a judgment concerning the absence or presence of safety threats, and
- reassessing parent/caregiver protective capacities.

The Ongoing Services worker should work with the family to assure informal or formal supports are in place prior to case closure. These supports include arrangements and connections within the family network or community that can be created, facilitated, or reinforced to provide the parent/caregiver resources and assistance once CPS involvement ends.

XI.A.2. Documentation/Supervisory Approval

Case closure information must be documented in the family case record and approved by a supervisor or her/his designee.

XII. Exceptions

XIII.A. Exceptions can only be made to these Standards when the justification for the exception and the alternative provision to meet the requirement(s) is documented in the case record and approved by a supervisor or her/his designee. Exceptions cannot be granted for requirements of state statutes, federal law, or administrative rules

GLOSSARY

The management and treatment of threats to child safety is based on concepts that should be fully understood and applied. The foundation for what CPS does during safety intervention is grounded on these concepts. The proficient use of the ideas that are expressed through these definitions is fully dependent on a versatile working knowledge of what these concepts are and how they have relevance, give meaning and apply to safety intervention.

- 1. Impending Danger is a foreseeable state of danger in which family behaviors, attitudes, motives, emotions and/or situations pose a threat which may not be currently active, but can be anticipated to have severe effects on a child at any time in the near future and requires safety intervention. The danger may not be obvious at the onset of CPS intervention or occurring in a present context, but can be identified and understood upon more fully evaluating individual and family conditions and functioning. There are Eleven (11) impending danger threats contained as criteria on the Safety Assessment for assessing, determining, and recording the presence of impending danger.
- 2. Parent or Caregiver Protective Capacities refers to personal and parenting behavioral, cognitive, and emotional characteristics that can specifically and directly be associated with a person being protective of his or her child. A protective capacity is a specific quality that can be observed, understood and demonstrated as a part of the way a parent thinks, feels, and acts that makes her or him protective.
- 3. Present Danger Threats refer to immediate, significant and clearly observable family condition that is actively occurring or “in process” of occurring at the point of contact with a family and will likely result in severe harm to a child.
- 4. Protective Plan refers to an immediate, short term action that protects a child from present danger threats in order to allow completion of the initial assessment/investigation and, if needed, the implementation of a safety plan.
- 5. Reunification refers to a safety decision to modify an out-of-home safety plan to an in-home safety plan based on an analysis that a) impending danger threats can be controlled; b) parent/caregiver protective capacities have been sufficiently enhanced; and c) parent/caregivers are willing and able to accept an in-home safety plan.
- 6. Safe Home refers to the required safety intervention outcome that must be achieved in order for a case that involves an unsafe child to be successfully closed. A safe home is a qualified environment and living circumstance that once established can be judged to assure a child’s safety and provide a permanent living arrangement. A safe home is qualified by the absence or reduction of threats of severe harm; the presence of sufficient parent or caregiver protective capacities; and confidence in consistency and endurance of the conditions that produced the safe home. The term “safe home” is used in the Adoption and Safe Families Act (ASFA) as the objective of CPS intervention.

7. Safety refers to the absence of present or impending danger to a child or routinely demonstrated parent or caregiver protective capacities to assure that a child is protected from danger.
8. Safety Analysis refers to an examination of safety intervention information; impending danger threats as identified by the safety assessment; and parent/caregiver protective capacities.
9. Safety Assessment means the identification and focused evaluation of impending danger threats as part of the initial CPS intervention and continues throughout the life of the case.
10. Safety Intervention refers to all the actions and decisions required throughout the life of a case to a) assure that an unsafe child is protected; b) expend sufficient efforts necessary to support and facilitate a child’s parents/caregivers taking responsibility for the child’s protection; and c) achieve the establishment of a safe, permanent home for the unsafe child. Safety intervention consists of identifying and assessing threats to child safety; planning and establishing safety plans that assure child safety; managing safety plans that assure child safety; and creating and implementing case plans that enhance the capacity of parents/caregivers to provide protection for their children.
11. Severe Harm refers to detrimental effects consistent with serious or significant injury; disablement; grave/debilitating physical health or physical conditions; acute/grievous suffering; terror; impairment; even death.
12. Threat to Child Safety refers to specific conditions, behavior, emotion, perceptions, attitudes, intent, actions or situations within a family that represent the potential for severe harm to a child. A threat to child safety may be classified as present danger threats or impending danger threats.
13. Unsafe refers to the presence of present or impending danger to a child and insufficient parent or caregiver protective capacities to assure that a child is protected.

SAFETY APPENDIX 1

Present Danger Threats to Child Safety DEFINITIONS AND EXAMPLES

Present Danger Threats refer to an immediate, significant, and clearly observable family condition that is occurring or “in process” of occurring at the point of contact with the family and will likely result in severe harm to a child. Present danger threats can be divided into four primary categories: Maltreatment, Child, Parent, and Family. Each threat is described below.

Maltreatment

The child is currently being maltreated at the time of the report or contact

This means that the child is being maltreated at the time the report is being made, maltreatment has occurred the same day as the contact, or maltreatment is in process at the time of contact.

Severe to extreme maltreatment of the child is suspected, observed, or confirmed

This includes severe or extreme forms of maltreatment and can include severe injuries, serious unmet health needs, cruel treatment, and psychological torture.

The child has multiple or different kinds of injuries

This generally refers to different kinds of injuries, such as bruising and burns, but it is acceptable to consider one type of injury on different parts of the body.

The child has injuries to the face or head

This includes physical injury to the face or head of the child alleged to be the result of maltreatment.

The child has unexplained injuries

This refers to a serious injury which parents/caregivers and others cannot or will not explain. It includes circumstances where the injury is known to be non-accidental and the maltreater is unknown.

The maltreatment demonstrates bizarre cruelty

This includes such things as locking up children, torture, extreme emotional abuse, etc.

The maltreatment of several victims is suspected, observed, or confirmed

This refers to the identification of more than one child who currently is being maltreated by the same caregiver. It's important to keep in mind that several children who are being chronically neglected do not meet the standard of present danger in this definition.

The maltreatment appears premeditated The maltreatment appears to be the result of a deliberate, preconceived plan or intent.

Dangerous (life threatening) living arrangements are present

This is based on specific information reported which indicates that a child's living situation is an immediate threat to his/her safety. This includes serious health and safety circumstances such as unsafe buildings, serious fire hazards, accessible weapons, unsafe heating or wiring, etc.

Child

Parent's viewpoint of child is bizarre.

This refers to an extreme viewpoint that could be dangerous for the child, not just a negative attitude toward the child. The parent's perception or viewpoint toward the child is so skewed and distorted that it poses an immediate danger to that child.

Child is unsupervised and unable to care for self

This applies if the child is without care. This includes circumstances where an older child is left to supervise younger children and is incapable of doing so.

Child needs medical attention

This applies to a child of any age. To be a present danger threat of harm, the medical care required must be significant enough that its absence could seriously affect the child's health and well-being. Lack of routine medical care is not a present danger threat.

The child is profoundly fearful of the home situation or people within the home

"Home situation" includes specific family members and/or other conditions in the living arrangement. "People within the home" refers to those who either live in the home or frequent the home so often that a child routinely and reasonably expects that the person may be there or show up.

The child's fear must be obvious, extreme, and related to some perceived danger that the child feels or experiences. This threat can also be present for a child who does not verbally express fear but their behavior and emotion clearly and vividly demonstrate fear.

Parent

Parent is intoxicated (alcohol or other drugs) now or is consistently under the influence

This refers to a parent who is intoxicated or under the influence of drugs much of the time and this impacts their ability to care for the child.

Parent is out of control (mental illness or other significant lack of control)

This can include unusual or dangerous behaviors; includes mental or emotional distress where a parent cannot manage their behaviors in order to meet their parenting responsibilities related to providing basic, necessary care and supervision.

Parent is demonstrating bizarre behaviors

This will require interpretation of the reported information and may include unpredictable, incoherent, outrageous, or totally inappropriate behavior.

Parent is unable or unwilling to perform basic care

This only refers to those parental duties and responsibilities consistent with basic care or supervision, not to whether the parent is generally effective or appropriate.

Parent is acting dangerous now or is described as dangerous

This includes a parent described as physically or verbally imposing and threatening, brandishing weapons, known to be dangerous and aggressive, currently behaving in an aggressive manner, etc.

Parent's whereabouts are unknown

This includes situations when a parent cannot be located at the time of the report or contact and this affects the safety of the child.

One or both parents overtly reject intervention.

They key word here is “overtly.” This means that the parent essentially avoids all CPS attempts at communication and completion of the initial assessment/investigation. This refers to situations where a parent refuses to see or speak with CPS staff and/or to let CPS staff see the child; is openly hostile (not just angry about CPS presence) or physically aggressive towards CPS staff; refuses access to the home, hides the child or refuses access to the child.

Family

The family may flee

This will require judgment of case information. Transient families, families with no clear home, or homes that are not established, etc., should be considered. This refers to families who are likely to be impossible or difficult to locate and does not include families that are considering a formal, planned move.

The family hides the child

This includes families who physically restrain a child within the home as well as families who avoid allowing others to have contact with their child by passing the child around to other relatives, or other means to limit CPS access to the child.

Child is subject to present/active domestic violence

This refers to presently occurring domestic violence and child maltreatment or a general recurring state of domestic violence that includes child maltreatment where a child is being subjected to the actions and behaviors of a perpetrator of domestic violence. There is greater concern when the abuse of a parent and the abuse of a child occur during the same time.

SAFETY APPENDIX 2

The Vulnerable Child

Introduction

Is there a vulnerable child in this family?

Child vulnerability refers to a child's capacity for self-protection. This definition helps to challenge the tendency of associating vulnerability primarily with age.

The Safety Assessment

Child vulnerability is the first conclusion you make when completing a safety assessment. If you conclude that there is not a vulnerable child in the family/household, no further safety assessment is necessary and no safety plan is required. When, however, you determine that a vulnerable child lives in the family/household, then you proceed with completing the safety assessment.

Safety is an issue only when there is a vulnerable child in a family.

Judging Child Vulnerability

In order to judge child vulnerability, you will need to observe the family and gather information to evaluate the child, understand the role the child has in the family, and have a sense of the parent- child interaction or relationship. While the vulnerability of some children is obvious simply by observation (e.g., an infant), it is not uncommon that a CPS worker cannot make an adequate judgment on the vulnerability of a child until the conclusion of the initial assessment/investigation.

The following will assist in judging child vulnerability:

Age – Children from birth to six years old are always vulnerable. Be hyper-vigilant about infants.

Physical Disability – Regardless of age, children who are physically handicapped and therefore unable to remove themselves from danger are vulnerable. Those who, because of their physical limitations, are highly dependent on others to meet their basic needs are vulnerable.

Mental Disability – Regardless of age, children who are cognitively limited are vulnerable because of a number of possible limitations: recognizing danger, knowing who can be trusted, meeting their basic needs and seeking protection.

Provocative – A child’s emotional, mental health, behavioral problems can be such that they irritate and provoke others to act out toward them or to totally avoid them.

Powerless – Regardless of age, intellect and physical capacity, children who are highly dependent and susceptible to others are vulnerable. These children typically are so influenced by emotional and psychological attachment that they are subject to the whims of those who have power over them. Within this dynamic, you might notice children being subject to intimidation, fear, and emotional manipulation. Powerlessness could also be observed in vulnerable children who are exposed to threatening circumstances which they are unable to manage.

Defenseless – Regardless of age, a child who is unable to defend him/herself against aggression is vulnerable. This can include those children who are oblivious to danger. Remember that self-protection involves accurate reality perception particularly related to dangerous people and dangerous situations. Children who are frail or lack mobility are more defenseless and therefore vulnerable.

Non Assertive – Regardless of age, a child who is so passive or withdrawn to not make his or her basic needs known is vulnerable. A child who is unable or afraid to seek help and protection from others is vulnerable.

Illness – Regardless of age, some children have continuing or acute medical problems and needs that make them vulnerable.

Invisible – Children that no one sees (who are hidden) are vulnerable. A child who has limited or no adult contact outside the home and is not available to be noticed or observed should be considered to be vulnerable regardless of age.

Summary

- Child vulnerability is the first conclusion you make when completing a safety assessment.
- A judgment about child vulnerability is based on the capacity for self-protection.
- Self-protection refers to being able to demonstrate behavior that 1) results in defending oneself against threats of safety and 2) results in successfully meeting one’s own basic (safety) needs.
- Child vulnerability is not a matter of degree. Kids are vulnerable to threats to safety or they are not.
- Vulnerability means being defenseless to threats of safety.
- Child vulnerability is not based on age alone.
- There are many characteristics of older children that make them vulnerable to threats to safety.

- If there are no vulnerable children in a family/household, then no additional safety assessment or safety planning is necessary.
- As a safety assessment concern, a child's vulnerability informs us about the predisposition for suffering more serious injury.
- As a safety planning issue, a child's vulnerability helps inform us about what is needed to manage threats and assure protection.

SAFETY APPENDIX 3

ESTABLISHING AND IMPELEMENTING THE PROTECTIVE PLAN

The following questions provide a guide for considering the establishment of immediate protective plans:

- Specifically, what are the threats that you are concerned with? What danger must be controlled?
- Is the family network interested in and capable of carrying out a protection plan?
- Is there any source within the family network that can serve to reduce the safety concern? (e.g., non abusing spouse, extended family, etc.) How do you know if they are willing/able?
- What natural resources seem to exist within the family network?
- What do you know about these resources (people)? How can you find out?
- Do resources and supports seem sufficient and available to address the threats to safety during the next few hours and days?
- What are the parents'/caregivers' and family's likely responses to my concerns?
- How do you deal with the parents/caregivers and the situation?
- Does a crisis exist? Are the threats associated with a crisis?
- How is the family responding to the crisis? What meaning does that have for action you must take?
- Will a protective plan stimulate a crisis? What are the implications of that?
- Is classic crisis intervention needed? What does that involve?
- Does the family have immediate needs that must be addressed? (e.g. housing, food, some sort of care). How does that affect your decisions? What can you offer? What actions are necessary by you? By them?
- Can an in-home protection plan be established? How will you involve the parents/caregivers/family network? What roles and responsibilities will they have? What roles and responsibilities will be given to others? How independent are others from the family in respect to exerting their protection role?
- How do you know the plan will work?
- Who else is involved?
- What is your role?
 - Does the child need a medical evaluation or immediate medical care? Why? How do you communicate this to the parents? How will you carry this out?
 - What are the immediate next steps? How will you know and believe their responses, commitments etc. re the next steps?

- Is legal action necessary to help assure the sufficiency of the protective plan?
What steps are necessary to carry this out?

Examples of protective plans include but are not limited to:

- A maltreating or threatening person agrees to leave and remain away from the home and child until such time as the initial assessment/investigation is complete.
- A responsible, suitable person agrees to reside in the household and supervise the child at all times and/or as needed to assure protection until the initial assessment/investigation is complete.
- The child is cared for part or all of the time outside the child's home by a friend, neighbor, or relative until the initial assessment/investigation is complete.
- The child is formally placed in out-of-home care pending the completion of the initial assessment/investigation.

SAFETY APPENDIX 4

PRESENT DANGER THREATS IN PLACEMENT HOMES

Present danger threats in placement homes can be different than present danger threats in a child's own home. When assessing safety of relative or foster care providers for the first time CPS should consider the following:

- A child's exceptional needs or behaviors placement caregivers cannot or will not meet or manage.
- A child who may be seen by placement caregivers as responsible for the child's parents' problems or for problems the prospective placement caregivers are experiencing or may experience.
- Placement caregivers who may be sympathetic toward the child's parents; who may justify the parents' behavior; who may believe the parents rather than CPS and the child; and/or who may be supportive of the child's parents' point of view.
- Any history of or active criminal behavior associated with the placement home.
- The potential for placement caregivers to allow parents access to the child.
- Whether the placement caregiver family is an active CPS case; whether there is a history of CPS involvement or history of reports.

The presence of any of these safety concerns along with present danger threats should be fully studied and understood and may represent a basis for not choosing a placement.

SAFETY APPENDIX 5

INFORMATION NEEDED TO SUPPORT SAFETY DECISIONS

1. The Extent of Maltreatment

- nature and extent of maltreatment
- symptoms
- specific events and circumstances
- condition and location of the presenting child
- duration
- progression
- pattern

2. Circumstances Surrounding the maltreatment

- isolation
- stress and coping
- violence
- multi-generational / historical
- explanation for maltreatment, events or family circumstances
- openness and truthfulness
- mental health issues
- substance use issues
- parents'/caregivers' response to CPS.
- history and duration of the maltreatment; chronicity and pervasiveness.
- contextual issues such as the use of objects, threats, intentional, bizarre.

3. Child Functioning

- child vulnerability
- special needs or unusual behaviors
- sense of security compared to fearfulness
- developmental status
- physical health and healthcare
- if school age, school attendance and performance
- suicidal, homicidal, or dangerously impulsive behavior
- developmentally/age appropriate social outlets; peer relationships; physical activity
- history of being sexually reactive/sexual acting out
- signs of positive attachment with parent or caregiver
- nature of affect; mood; temperament
- behaviors in terms of being within or beyond normal limits
- sleeping arrangements

- child perceptions about intervention for self or other family members
- appropriateness of child's responsibilities within the home and family
- condition of the child
- usual location(s) of the child
- accessibility of the child to danger or threatening people

4. Adult Functioning

- reality orientation
- reality perception
- problem awareness, acknowledgement, acceptance
- self evaluation as part of life situation
- openness and defensiveness
- mood and temperament
- emotional control
- self control
- self aware
- coping
- impulse management
- problem solving; planning
- judgment
- acts
- assertive
- approach to meeting needs and desires
- accountable
- dependable
- reliable
- trustworthy
- sensible
- settled

5. Parenting and Disciplinary Practices

- Parent/caregiver self perception and attitude about parenting
- Parent/caregiver history of parenting including how parent/caregiver was parented
- Parenting style; awareness and rationale for parenting style
- Parent/caregiver knowledge of child development
- Parent/caregiver perception of the child
- Parent/caregivers recognition of the child's needs
- Nature of attachment existing between parent/caregiver and child
- Parent/caregiver expressed concern and empathy for the child
- Parent/caregiver tolerance of the child
- Parent/caregiver reaction toward the child; manner of responding
- Interaction between the parent/caregiver and child
- Parent/caregivers manner of expression and communication with the child

- Parent/caregiver alignments; alignment with child
- Parent/caregivers attitudes about; willingness and ability to supervise and protect
- Parent/caregivers ability to accurately identify threats to child safety; recognize danger
- Parent/caregivers ability to defer their own personal needs in favor of the needs of their child
- Parent/caregivers recognition of a child's need for supervision and protection
- Parent/caregivers perception regarding their responsibility to protect
- Parent/caregivers motivation to protect and meet basic needs
- Parent/caregivers ability to recognize a child's strengths, needs and limitations
- The nature of child care in terms of providing basic needs compared to the child's age and his/her extent of self sufficiency
- Parents'/caregivers' understanding and beliefs about their primary role to assure basic needs and protection
- Parents'/caregivers' knowledge and skill to provide basic needs
- Parents'/caregivers' ability to access resources and/or plan how to use resources to meet basic needs
- Type and nature of disciplinary approaches
- Purpose for discipline
- Plan for approaching discipline
- Parents'/caregivers' self awareness regarding the effectiveness of disciplinary approaches and their reaction(s) toward the child
- Parents'/caregivers' expectations for the child behavior and response
- Parents'/caregivers' emotional state related to discipline
- Balance of discipline as a function of parenting compared to other parenting responsibilities

SAFETY APPENDIX 6

THE DANGER THRESHOLD AND IMPENDING DANGER THREATS TO CHILD SAFETY

The definition for impending danger indicates that threats to child safety are family conditions that are specific and observable. A threat of impending danger is something CPS sees or learns about from credible sources. Family members and others who know a family can describe threats of impending danger. These dangerous family conditions can be observed, identified, and understood. If CPS cannot describe in detail a family condition or parent/caregiver behavior that is a threat to a child's safety that he or she has seen or been told about then that is an indication that it is not a threat of impending danger. Child vulnerability is always assessed and determined separate from identifying impending danger. If a case does not include a vulnerable child then safety is not an issue.

The Danger Threshold refers to the point at which family behaviors, conditions or situations rise to the level of directly threatening the safety of a child. The danger threshold is crossed when family behaviors, conditions or situations are manifested in such a way that they are beyond being just problems or risk influences and have become threatening to child safety. These family behaviors, conditions, or situations are active at a heightened degree, a greater level of intensity, and are judged to be out of the parent/caregiver or family's control thus having implications for dangerousness.

The danger threshold is the means by which a family condition can be judged or measured to determine if a safety threat exists. The danger threshold criteria includes: family behaviors, conditions or situations that are observable, specific and justifiable; occurring in the presence of a vulnerable child; are out-of-control; are severe/extreme in nature; are imminent; and likely to produce severe harm. The danger threshold includes only those family conditions that are judged to be out of a parents'/caregiver's control and out of the control of others within the family. This includes situations where the parent/caregiver is able to control conditions, behaviors, or situations but is unwilling or refuses to exert control.

Danger Threshold Definitions

- Observable refers to family behaviors, conditions or situations representing a danger to a child that are specific, definite, real, can be seen, identified and understood and are subject to being reported, named, and justified. The criterion "observable" does not include suspicion, intuitive feelings, difficulties in worker-family interaction, lack of cooperation, or difficulties in obtaining information.
- Vulnerable Child refers to a child who is dependent on others for protection and is exposed to circumstances that she or he is powerless to manage, and susceptible, accessible, and available to a threatening person and/or persons in authority over them. Vulnerability is judged according to age; physical and emotional development; ability to communicate needs; mobility; size and dependence and susceptibility. This definition also includes all young children from 0 – 6 and older children who, for whatever reason, are not able to protect themselves or seek help from others.

- Out-of-Control refers to family behavior, conditions or situations which are unrestrained resulting in an unpredictable and possibly chaotic family environment not subject to the influence, manipulation, or ability within the family's control. Such out-of-control family conditions pose a danger and are not being managed by anybody or anything internal to the family system. The family cannot or will not control these dangerous behaviors, conditions or situations.
- Imminent refers to the belief that dangerous family behaviors, conditions, or situations will remain active or become active within the next several days to a couple of weeks and will have an impact on the child within that timeframe. This is consistent with a degree of certainty or inevitability that danger and harm are possible, even likely, outcomes without intervention.
- Severity refers to the degree of harm that is possible or likely without intervention. As far as danger is concerned, the safety threshold is consistent with severe harm. Severe harm includes such effects as serious physical injury, disability, terror and extreme fear, impairment and death. The danger threshold is also in line with family conditions that reasonably could result in harsh and unacceptable pain and suffering for a vulnerable child. In judging whether a behavior or condition is a threat to safety, consider if the harm that is possible or likely within the next few weeks has potential for severe harm, even if it has not resulted in such harm in the past. In addition to this application in the threshold, the concept of severity can also be used to describe maltreatment that has occurred in the past.

Impending Danger Threats - Definitions and Examples

1. No adult in the home will perform parental duties and responsibilities.

This refers only to adults (not children) in a caregiving role. Duties and responsibilities related to the provision of food, clothing, shelter, and supervision are considered at a basic level.

This threat is illustrated by the following examples.

- Parent's/caregiver's physical or mental disability/incapacitation makes the person unable to provide basic care for the child.
- Parent/caregiver is or has been absent from the home for lengthy periods of time and no other adults are available to care for the child without CPS coordination.

- Parent/caregiver has abandoned the child.
- Parent/caregiver arranged care by an adult, but their whereabouts are unknown or they have not returned according to plan, and the current caregiver is asking for relief.
- Parent/caregiver does not respond to or ignores a child's basic needs.
- Parent/caregiver allows the child to wander in and out of the home or through the neighborhood without the necessary supervision.
- Parent/caregiver ignores or does not provide necessary, protective supervision and basic care appropriate to the age and capacity of the child.
- Parent/caregiver is unavailable to provide necessary protective supervision and basic care because of physical illness or incapacity.
- Parent/caregiver is or will be incarcerated thereby leaving the child without a responsible adult to provide care.
- Parent/caregiver allows other adults to improperly influence (drugs, alcohol, abusive behavior) the child.
- Child has been left with someone who does not know the parent/caregiver.

2. One or both parents/caregivers are violent.

Violence refers to aggression, fighting, brutality, cruelty and hostility. It may be regularly, generally or potentially active.

This threat is illustrated by the following examples.

Domestic Violence:

- Parent/caregiver physically and/or verbally assaults their partner and the child witnesses the activity and is fearful for self and/or others.
- Parent/caregiver threatens, attacks, or injures both their partner and the child.
- Parent/caregiver threatens, attacks, or injures their partner and the child attempts or may attempt to intervene.
- Parent/caregiver threatens, attacks, or injures their partner and the child is harmed even though the child may not be the actual target of the violence.
- Parent/caregiver threatens to harm the child or withhold necessary care from the child in order to intimidate or control their partner.

General violence:

- Parent/caregiver whose behavior outside of the home (drugs, violence, aggressiveness, hostility, etc.) creates an environment within the home that could reasonably cause severe consequences to the child (e.g. drug parties, gangs, drive-by shootings).
- Parent/caregiver who is impulsive, explosive or out of control, having temper outbursts which result in violent physical actions (e.g. throwing things).

3. One or both parents'/caregivers' behavior is dangerously impulsive or they will not/cannot control their behavior.

This threat is about self-control (e.g. a person's ability to postpone or set aside needs, plan, be dependable, avoid destructive behavior, use good judgment, not act on impulses, exert energy and action or manage emotions. Parent's/caregiver's lack of self-control places vulnerable children in jeopardy. This threat includes parents/caregivers who are incapacitated or not controlling their behavior because of mental health or substance abuse issues).

Poor impulse control or lack of self-control includes behaviors other than aggression and can lead to severe consequence to a child. This threat is illustrated by the following examples.

- Parent/caregiver is seriously depressed and functionally unable to meet the child's basic needs
- Parent/caregiver is chemically dependent and unable to control the dependency's effects.
- Substance abuse renders the parent/caregiver incapable of routinely/consistently attending to child's basic needs.
- Parent/caregiver makes impulsive decisions and plans that leave the child in precarious situations (e.g. unsupervised, supervised by an unreliable person).
- Parent/caregiver spends money impulsively resulting in a lack of basic necessities.
- Parent/caregiver is emotionally immobilized (chronically or situational) and cannot control behavior.
- Parent/caregiver has addictive patterns or behaviors (e.g. addiction to substances, gambling, computers) that are uncontrolled and leave the child in potentially severe situations (e.g. failure to supervise or provide other basic care)
- Parent/caregiver is delusional or experiencing hallucinations.
- Parent/caregiver cannot control sexual impulses (e.g. sexual activity with or in front of the child).

4. One or both parents/caregivers have extremely negative perceptions of the child.

“Extremely” means a negative perception that is so exaggerated that an out-of-control response by the parent/caregiver is likely and will have severe consequences for the child.

This threat is illustrated by the following examples.

- Child is perceived to be evil, deficient, or embarrassing.
- Child is perceived as having the same characteristics as someone the parent/caregiver hates or is fearful of or hostile towards, and the parent/caregiver transfers feelings and perceptions to the child.

- Child is considered to be punishing or torturing the parent/caregiver (e.g., responsible for difficulties in parent's/caregiver's life, limitations to their freedom, conflicts, losses, financial or other burdens).
- One parent/caregiver is jealous of the child and believes the child is a detriment or threat to the parent's/caregiver's intimate relationship and/or other parent.
- Parent/ caregiver see the child as an undesirable extension of self and views the child with some sense of purging or punishing.

5. Family does not have or use resources necessary to assure the child's basic needs.

“Basic needs” refers to family's lack of 1) minimal resources to provide shelter, food, and clothing or 2) the capacity to use resources for basic needs, even when available.

This threat is illustrated by the following examples.

- Family has insufficient money to provide basic and protective care.
- Family has insufficient food, clothing, or shelter for basic needs of the child.
- Family finances are insufficient to support needs that, if unmet, could result in severe consequences to the child.
- Parent/caregiver lacks life management skills to properly use resources when they are available.
- Family is routinely using their resources for things (e.g. drugs) other than for basic care and support thereby leaving them without their basic needs being adequately met.

6. One or both parents/caregivers fear they will maltreat the child and/or request placement.

This refers to caregivers who express anxiety and dread about their ability to control their emotions and reactions toward their child. This expression represents a parent's distraught/extreme “call for help.” A request for placement is extreme evidence with respect to a caregiver's conclusion that the child can only be safe if he or she is away from the caregiver.

This threat is illustrated by the following examples.

- Parent/caregiver states they will maltreat.
- Parent/caregiver describes conditions and situations that stimulate them to think about maltreating the child.
- Parent/caregiver talks about being worried about, fearful of, or preoccupied with maltreating the child.
- Parent/caregiver identifies things that the child does that aggravate or annoy them in ways that makes them want to attack the child.

- Parent/caregiver describes disciplinary incidents that have become out-of-control.
- Parent/caregiver is distressed or "at the end of their rope" and are asking for relief in either specific ("take the child") or general ("please help me before something awful happens") terms.
- One parent/caregiver is expressing concerns about what the other parent/caregiver is capable of or may be doing.

7. One or both parents/caregivers intend(ed) to seriously hurt the child.

Parents/caregivers anticipate acting in a way that will assure pain and suffering. "Intended" means that before or during the time the child was harmed, the parent's/caregiver's conscious purpose was to hurt the child. This threat is distinguished from an incident in which the parent/caregiver meant to discipline or punish the child and the child was inadvertently hurt.

"Seriously" refers to causing the child to suffer physically or emotionally. Parent/caregiver action is more about causing a child pain than about a consequence needed to teach a child.

This threat is illustrated by the following examples.

- The incident was planned or had an element of premeditation.
- The nature of the incident or use of an instrument can be reasonably assumed to heighten the level of pain or injury (e.g. cigarette burns).
- Parent's/caregiver's motivation to teach or discipline seems secondary to inflicting pain or injury.
- Parent/caregiver can reasonably be assumed to have had some awareness of what the result would be prior to the incident.
- Parent's/caregiver's actions were not impulsive, there was sufficient time and deliberation to assure that the actions hurt the child.

8. One or both parents/caregivers lack parenting knowledge, skills, or motivation necessary to assure the child's basic needs are met.

This refers to basic parenting that directly affects meeting the child's needs for food, clothing, shelter, and required level of supervision. The inability and/or unwillingness to meet basic needs create a concern for immediate and severe consequences for a vulnerable child.

This threat is illustrated by the following examples.

- Parent's/caregiver's intellectual capacities affect judgment and/or knowledge in ways that prevent the provision of adequate basic care.

- Young or intellectually limited parents/primary caregivers have little or no knowledge of a child's needs and capacity.
- Parent's/caregiver's expectations of the child far exceed the child's capacity thereby placing the child in situations that could result in severe consequences.
- Parent/caregiver does not know what basic care is or how to provide it (e.g., how to feed or diaper; how to protect or supervise according to the child's age).
- Parent's/caregiver's parenting skills are exceeded by a child's special needs and demands in ways that will result in severe consequences to the child.
- Parent's/caregiver's knowledge and skills are adequate for some children's ages and development, but not for others (e.g., able to care for an infant, but cannot control a toddler).
- Parent/caregiver is averse to parenting and does not provide basic needs.
- Parent/caregiver avoids parenting and basic care responsibilities.
- Parent/caregiver allows others to parent or provide care to the child without concern for the other person's ability or capacity.
- Parent/caregiver does not know or does not apply basic safety measures (e.g., keeping medications, sharp objects, or household cleaners out of reach of small children).
- Parents/caregivers place their own needs above the child's needs that could result in severe consequences to the child.
- Parents/caregivers do not believe the child's disclosure of abuse/neglect even when there is a preponderance of evidence and this has or will result in severe consequences to the child.

9. The child has exceptional needs which the parents/caregivers cannot or will not meet.

“Exceptional” refers to specific child conditions (e.g., developmental disability, blindness, physical disability, special medical needs). This threat is present when parents/caregivers, by not addressing the child's exceptional needs, create an immediate concern for severe consequences to the child.

This does not refer to parents/caregivers who do not do particularly well at meeting the child's special needs, but the consequences are relatively mild. Rather, this refers to specific capacities/skills/intentions in parenting that must occur and are required for the “exceptional” child not to suffer serious consequences.

This threat exists, for example, when the child has a physical or other exceptional need or condition that, if unattended, will result in imminent and severe consequences and one of the following applies:

- Parent/caregiver does not recognize the condition or exceptional need.
- Parent/caregiver views the condition as less serious than it is.

- Parent/caregiver refuses to address the condition for religious or other reasons.
- Parent/caregiver lacks the capacity to fully understand the condition which results in severe consequences for the child.
- Parent's/caregiver's expectations of the child are totally unrealistic in view of the child's condition.
- Parent/caregiver allows the child to live or be placed in situations in which harm is increased by virtue of the child's condition.

10. Living arrangements seriously endanger the child's physical health.

This threat refers to conditions in the home that are immediately life-threatening or seriously endanger the child's physical health (e.g., people discharging firearms without regard to who might be harmed; the lack of hygiene is so dramatic as to potentially cause serious illness). Physical health includes serious injuries that could occur because of the condition of the living arrangement.

This threat is illustrated by the following examples.

- Housing is unsanitary, filthy, infested, a health hazard.
- The house's physical structure is decaying, falling down.
- Wiring and plumbing in the house are substandard, exposed.
- Furnishings or appliances are hazardous.
- Heating, fireplaces, stoves, are hazardous and accessible.
- The home has easily accessible open windows or balconies in upper stories.
- The family home is being used for methamphetamine production; products and materials used in the production of methamphetamine are being stored and are accessible within the home.
- Occupants in the home, activity within the home, or traffic in and out of the home present a specific threat to the child that could result in severe consequences to the child.
- People who are under the influence of substances that can result in violent, sexual, or aggressive behavior are routinely in the home or have frequent access

11. The child is profoundly fearful of the home situation or people within the home.

"Home situation" includes specific family members and/or other conditions in the living arrangement. "People in the home" refers to those who either live in the home or frequent the home so often that a child routinely and reasonably expects that the person may be there or show up.

The child's fear must be obvious, extreme, and related to some perceived danger that the child feels or experiences. This threat can also be present a child who does not verbally express fear but their behavior and emotion clearly and vividly demonstrate fear.

This threat is illustrated by the following examples.

- Child demonstrates emotional and/or physical responses indicating fear of the living situation or of people within the home (e.g., crying, inability to focus, nervousness, withdrawal, running away).
- Child expresses fear and describes people and circumstances which are reasonably threatening.
- Child recounts previous experiences which form the basis for fear.
- Child's fearful response escalates at the mention of home, specific people, or specific circumstances associated with reported incidents.
- Child describes personal threats which seem reasonable and believable.

SAFETY APPENDIX 7

PARENT/CAREGIVER PROTECTIVE CAPACITIES

The following parental protective capacity areas of assessment are related to personal and parenting behavior, cognitive and emotional characteristics that specifically and directly can be associated with being protective to one's children. Protective capacities are personal qualities or characteristics that contribute to vigilant child protection. They are "strengths" that are specifically associated with one's ability to perform effectively as a parent in order to provide and assure a consistently safe environment.

Assessment of a parent/caregiver's capacity to protect a child begins with identifying and understanding how specific safety threats are occurring within the family system. At this point in the case process a worker determines what specific protective capacities are associated with the threats to child safety. The following definitions and examples should be used as a tool in assisting a worker in identifying the specific protective capacities that must be enhanced.

Children are unsafe because of threats to safety that cannot be controlled or mitigated by the parent/caregiver. Together, the worker and family identify strategies to enhance their capacity to provide protection for their child. For ongoing CPS there are three questions to answer which will then direct case planning:

- what is the reason for CPS involvement (safety threats)?
- what must change (protective capacities associated with identified safety threats)?
- how do we get there (case plan directed at enhancing protective capacities)?

Through the family assessment process, the Ongoing Services worker identifies enhanced and diminished parent/caregiver protective capacities. Enhanced protective capacities are strengths that can contribute to and reinforce the change process. Conversely, diminished protective capacities are the focus of the case plan. These are the areas that must change in order for parents/caregivers to resume their role and responsibility to provide protection for their children and create a safe home.

Assessing and understanding parent/caregiver protective capacities is the study and decision-making process that examines and integrates safety concerns into the case plan. It begins with the first meeting with the parents and child and is related to understanding personal and parenting behavior as well as cognitive and emotional characteristics that can be directly associated with being protective of one's children. This assessment is directly related to understanding and managing impending danger threats and correlating those identified threats to diminished parent/caregiver protective capacities. Diminished protective capacities are then addressed in the case plan.

The following definitions and examples are not to be applied as a checklist, but rather provide a framework in which to consider and understand how to direct CPS services to reduce or eliminate threats to child safety by enhancing parent/caregiver protective capacities.

Definitions and Examples

Behavioral Protective Capacities

The parent/caregiver has a history of protecting

This refers to a person with many experiences and events in which they have demonstrated clear and reportable evidence of having been protective.

- People who have protected their children in demonstrative ways by separating them from danger; seeking assistance from others; or similar clear evidence.
- Parents/caregivers and other reliable people who can describe various events and experiences where protectiveness was evident.

The parent/caregiver takes action.

This refers to a person who is action-oriented in all aspects of their life.

- People who proceed with a positive course of action in resolving issues.
- People who take necessary steps to complete tasks.

The parent/caregiver demonstrates impulse control.

This refers to a person who is deliberate and careful; who acts in managed and self-controlled ways.

- People who think about consequences and act accordingly.
- People who are able to plan.

The parent/caregiver is physically able and has adequate energy.

This refers to people who are sufficiently healthy, mobile and strong.

- People with physical abilities to effectively deal with dangers like fires or physical threats.
- People who have the personal sustenance necessary to be ready and on the job of being protective.

The parent/caregiver has/demonstrates adequate skill to fulfill responsibilities.

This refers to the possession and use of skills that are related to being protective as a parent/caregiver.

- People who can care for, feed, supervise, etc. their children according to their basic needs.
- People who can handle and manage their caregiving responsibilities.

The parent/caregiver sets aside her/his needs in favor of a child.

This refers to people who can delay gratifying their own needs, who accept their children's needs as a priority over their own.

- People who do for themselves after they've done for their children.
- People who seek ways to satisfy their children's needs as the priority.

The parent/caregiver is adaptive as a caregiver.

This refers to people who adjust and make the best of whatever caregiving situation occurs.

- People who are flexible and adjustable.
- People who accept things and can be creative about caregiving resulting in positive solutions.

The parent/caregiver is assertive as a caregiver.

This refers to being positive and persistent.

- People who advocate for their child.
- People who are self-confident and self-assured.

The parent/caregiver uses resources necessary to meet the child's basic needs.

This refers to knowing what is needed, getting it, and using it to keep a child safe.

- People who use community public and private organizations.
- People who will call on police or access the courts to help them.

The parent/caregiver supports the child.

This refers to actual and observable acts of sustaining, encouraging, and maintaining a child's psychological, physical and social well-being.

- People who spend considerable time with a child and respond to them in a positive manner.
- People who demonstrate actions that assure that their child is encouraged and reassured.

Cognitive Protective Capacities

The parent/caregiver plans and articulates a plan to protect the child.

This refers to the thinking ability that is evidenced in a reasonable, well thought out plan.

- People who are realistic in their idea and arrangements about what is needed to protect a child.
- People whose awareness of the plan is best illustrated by their ability to explain it and reason out why it is sufficient.

The parent/caregiver is aligned with the child.

This refers to a mental state or an identity with a child.

- People who think that they are highly connected to a child and therefore responsible for a child's well-being and safety.
- People who consider their relationship with a child as the highest priority.

The parent/caregiver has adequate knowledge to fulfill caregiving responsibilities and tasks.

This refers to information and personal knowledge that is specific to caregiving that is associated with protection.

- People who have information related to what is needed to keep a child safe.
- People who know how to provide basic care which assures that children are safe.

The parent/caregiver is reality oriented; perceives reality accurately.

This refers to mental awareness and accuracy about one's surroundings; correct perceptions of what is happening; and the viability and appropriateness of responses to what is real and factual.

- People who describe life circumstances accurately and operate in realistic ways.
- People who alert to, recognize, and respond to threatening situations and people.

The parent/caregiver has accurate perceptions of the child.

This refers to seeing and understanding a child's capabilities, needs, and limitations correctly.

- People who recognize the child's needs, strengths, and limitations. People who can explain what a child requires, generally, for protection and why.
- People who are accepting and understanding of the capabilities of a child.

The parent/caregiver understands his/her protective role.

This refers to awareness....knowing there are certain responsibilities and obligations that are specific to protecting a child.

- People who value and believe it is her/his primary responsibility to protect the child.
- People who can explain what the "protective role" means and involves and why it is so important.

The parent/caregiver is self-aware.

This refers to a parent's/caregiver's sensitivity to one's thinking and actions and their effects on others – on a child.

- People who understand the cause – effect relationship between their own actions and results for their children.
- People who understand that their role as a parent/caregiver is unique and requires specific responses for their children.

Emotional Protective Capacities

The parent/caregiver is able to meet own emotional needs.

This refers to satisfying how one feels in reasonable, appropriate ways that are not dependent on or take advantage of others, in particular, children.

- People who use reasonable, appropriate, and mature/adult-like ways of satisfying their feelings and emotional needs.

The parent/caregiver is emotionally able to intervene to protect the child.

This refers to mental health, emotional energy, and emotional stability.

- People who are doing well enough emotionally that their needs and feelings don't immobilize them or reduce their ability to act promptly and appropriately with respect to protectiveness.

The parent/caregiver is resilient

This refers to responsiveness and being able and ready to act promptly as a parent/caregiver.

- People who recover quickly from set backs or being upset.
- People who are effective at coping as a parent/caregiver.

The parent/caregiver is tolerant

This refers to acceptance, understanding, and respect in their parent/caregiver role.

- People who have a big picture attitude, who don't over react to mistakes and accidents.
- People who value how others feel and what they think.

The parent/caregiver displays concern for the child and the child's experience and is intent on emotionally protecting the child.

This refers to a sensitivity to understand and feel some sense of responsibility for a child and what the child is going through in such a manner to compel one to comfort and reassure.

- People who show compassion through sheltering and soothing a child.
- People who calm, pacify, and appease a child.

The parent/caregiver and child have a strong bond and the parent/caregiver is clear that the number one priority is the child.

This refers to a strong attachment that places a child's interest above all else.

- People who act on behalf of a child because of the closeness and identity the person feels for the child.
- People who order their lives according to what is best for their children because of the special connection and attachment that exists between them.

The parent/caregiver expresses love, empathy, and sensitivity toward the child.

This refers to active affection, compassion, warmth, and sympathy.

- People who relate to, can explain, and feel what a child feels, thinks and goes through.

Examples of Demonstrated Protectiveness

Judging whether a parent/caregiver is and will continue to be protective can be accomplished by examining specific attributes of the person as identified in the previous definitions and examples. Confirmation of how those attributes are evidenced in real life demonstration will provide confidence regarding the judgment that a parent/caregiver is and will continue to be protective in relation to threats to child safety. Here are examples of demonstrated protectiveness:

The parent/caregiver has demonstrated the ability to protect the child in the past while under similar or comparable circumstances and family conditions.

The parent/caregiver has made appropriate arrangements which have been confirmed to assure that the child is not left alone with the maltreating person. This may include having another adult present within the home that is aware of the protective concerns and is able to protect the child.

The parent/caregiver can specifically articulate a plan to protect the child.

The parent/caregiver believes the child's story concerning maltreatment or impending danger safety threats and is supportive of the child.

The parent/caregiver is intellectually, emotionally, and physically able to intervene to protect the child.

The parent/caregiver does not have significant individual needs which might affect the safety of the child, such as severe depression, lack of impulse control, medical needs, etc.

The parent/caregiver has adequate resources necessary to meet the child's basic needs which allows for sufficient independence from anyone that might be a threat to the child.

The parent/caregiver is capable of understanding the specific safety threat to the child and the need to protect.

The parent/caregiver has adequate knowledge and skill to fulfill parenting responsibilities and tasks that might be required related to protecting the child from the safety threat. This may involve considering the parent's/caregiver's ability to meet any exceptional needs that a child might have.

The parent/caregiver is cooperating with CPS' safety intervention efforts.

The parent/caregiver is emotionally able to carry out his or her own plan to provide protection and/or to intervene to protect the child; the parent/caregiver is not intimidated by or fearful of whomever might be a threat to the child.

The parent/caregiver displays concern for the child and the child's experience and is intent on emotionally protecting as well as physically protecting the child.

The parent/caregiver and the child have a strong bond and the parent/caregiver is clear that his/her number one priority is the safety of the child.

The non threatening parent/caregiver consistently expresses belief that the threatening parent/caregiver or person is in need of help and that he or she supports the threatening parent/caregiver getting help. This is the non threatening parent's/caregiver's point of view without being prompted by CPS.

While the parent/caregiver is having a difficult time believing the threatening parent/caregiver or person would severely harm the child, he or she describes and considers the child as believable and trustworthy.

The parent/caregiver does not place responsibility on the child for problems within the family or for impending danger safety threats that have been identified by CPS.

SAFETY APPENDIX 8

SAFETY PLAN INFORMATION

In-home Safety plan refers to safety management so that safety services, actions, and responses assure a child can be kept safe in his own home. In-home safety plans include activities and services that may occur within the home or outside the home, but contribute to the child remaining home. People participating in in-home safety plans may be responsible for what they do inside or outside the child's home. An in-home safety plan primarily involves the home setting and the child's location within the home as central to the safety plan, however, in-home safety plans can also include periods of separation of the child from the home and may even contain an out-of-home placement option such as on weekends (e.g. respite).

Out-of-home Safety plan refers to safety management that primarily depends on separation of a child from his home, separation from the safety threats, and separation from parents/caregivers who lack sufficient protective capacities to assure the child will be protected. Out-of-home safety plans can include safety services and actions in addition to separation or out-of-home placement. Out-of-home safety plans should always contain a family interaction plan based on the unique circumstances of each case. Out-of-home safety plans can contain some in-home safety management dimension to them. Out-of-home safety plans can include safety service providers and others concerned with safety management besides the out-of-home care providers.

Safety plans can involve in-home and out-of-home options combined in such a way to assure a child is protected. Depending on how safety threats are occurring within a family, separation may be necessary periodically, at certain times during a day or week or for blocks of time (e.g. day care, staying with grandma on weekends), or all the time until conditions for return home can be met. Therefore, when developing safety plans, CPS scrutinizes when separation is required to assure protection and if combinations of in-home and out-of-home management options may be sufficient to assure protection. Alternatively when CPS determines that only an out-of-home safety plan is appropriate (i.e., child is placed full time) consideration is also given to including in-home safety options/services to provide a bridge for working toward achieving conditions for return and reducing the amount of time that a child is in out-of-home placement.

SAFETY APPENDIX 9

SAFETY SERVICES INFORMATION

Safety Services refers to actions; items and resources provided, supervision identified as part of a safety plan occurring specifically for controlling or managing impending danger threats.

Safety Service Providers refers to anyone who participates as one responsible for safety management within a safety plan. Safety service providers can be professionals, para-professionals, lay persons, volunteers, neighbors or relatives.

Accessibility of Safety Service Providers refers to the extent to which those responsible for safety management are close enough with respect to time and proximity for timely involvement in a safety plan.

Availability of Safety Service Providers refers to whether those responsible for safety management within a safety plan exist in sufficient quantities under the circumstances prescribed by the safety plan.

SAFETY APPENDIX 10

In-home Safety Management Criteria

1. The parents/caregivers must be residing in the home that is an established residence.
2. The home environment must be calm and consistent enough so that safety actions, safety services, and safety service providers can be in the home and providers can be safe.
3. The parents/caregivers are willing:
 - a. to accept an in-home safety plan,
 - b. to allow safety services to be implemented within the home according to the safety plan, and
 - c. to be cooperative with those who are participating in carrying out the safety plan (i.e., safety service providers) within the home.

Criteria for a Sufficient In-Home Safety plan

1. Safety actions, safety services, and safety service providers must be immediately available and accessible.
2. The safety plan must be action oriented to control impending danger threats.
3. The actions and services included as part of a safety plan must have immediate impact with respect to controlling safety threats.
4. Safety plans cannot be based upon promissory commitments from parents/caregivers.

SAFETY APPENDIX 11

Out-of-home Safety Management Criteria

1. Safety threats, as analyzed, are so extreme or occurring within the family in such a way that prevents in-home safety management.
2. A child's behavior is so provocative or out-of-control that this prevents in-home safety management.
3. The nature of the home environment is so chaotic, unpredictable, or dangerous that it prevents in-home safety management.
4. The parents/caregivers are unwilling to accept an in-home option for the safety plan and are unwilling to accept available providers and other people, resources, or safety services.
5. The parents'/caregivers' willingness to accept an in-home option for the safety plan cannot be confirmed or relied upon.
